

Work transfer device for transportation machinery parts

Usage A device that pushes out parts on a conveyor to place them on another conveyor.

Explanation

Since there is no air source, the transfer has been done manually, but the adoption of the Elecylinder made it possible to automate the process.

Since the acceleration can be set in advance, damage to the workpiece can be prevented compared to using an air cylinder.