

Appearance inspection device for automobile parts

Usage A device that measures the thickness using a laser displacement meter.

Explanation

Measure the inside/outside diameter of the part from above and below using the strip laser of the laser dimensional gage. This process required constant-speed reciprocating motion. Therefore, the Elecylinder, which has two-point position setting, easy-to-handle speed setting, and a built-in linear guide was ideal.